

RECEPTION AND DANCE GIVEN AT TOLTEC CLUB BY MR. AND MRS. O. C. COLES RECALLOLD SOUTH

HOSPITALITY that made the old south so famous was everywhere in evidence at the Toltec club Wednesday night, when Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Coles entertained for their honor guest, Miss Marian Dean, of Rome, Ga.

Lebanon cedars and Georgia beaten biscuits on the big, long table, loaded with turkey and hams, seemed to symbolize the blending of the two southern states of Tennessee and Georgia, and the traditions of the true south were epitomized by the Coles, who are members of old families in these two southern states.

The Toltec club is a beautiful place for dancing parties when it is unadorned, but it was converted into a Japanese tea garden Wednesday evening until the odor of cherry blossoms could almost be detected. The dining room of the club was hung heavy in ropes of southern smilax, autumn leaves, yellow chrysanthemums and early covered Japanese parasols. Others of the leaves and smilax formed a bower in which diminutive yellow candles glowed from their golden cages. Variegated lights were half concealed in the leaves and blended with the pink shaded candles on the long table. On this smilax covered table, whole turkeys, hams and the beaten biscuits that made Georgia famous were ranged in great heads for the guests to help themselves, while negro servants in white coats carved and served.

The great hall of the club was arranged as an all-fringe dining room, with tables ranged around the walls and Japanese lanterns shedding their light from overhead. The dancers were served between dances, leaving their chairs tipped to tango in the big ballroom. This hall was also hung with smilax and festoons of red and green lights, while in a corner punch was served to the dancers. The cozy living room of the club, with its high backed chairs, wide fireplace and soft shaded lights, made a delightful retreat after the dances in the ball room. Gilt baskets filled with huge chrysanthemums, palms, bouquets of azaleas on stately white pedestals and smilax ropes added to the beautiful effects in this room.

In the ballroom, the lights were all turned on around the high ceiling; the white and gold columns glistened in the lights and the orchestra played inspiring music for the dancers from the music gallery. The picture in this imposing place was like an etching of old southern parties. The dances resembled the minuets and polkas in their graceful movements and the beautiful gowns of the women added their brilliance to the whirl of color.

The reception given in the afternoon by Mrs. Coles was attended by 259 guests, who were received by Mrs. Coles, Mrs. Christopher Fowler and Miss Marion Dean, who was guest of honor.

Diets of omelets was manifest when it was learned that Mrs. Mary Hills, aunt of Mrs. Coles, was unable to be present on account of illness, and Miss Letitia Johnson was detained on account of the serious illness of her father. It is hoped, however, that Mrs. Hills and Miss Johnson will arrive in the near future.

Mrs. Coles wore a handsome gown of rose colored charmeuse with pink trimmings; the skirt was draped. Mrs. Fowler wore a black Chantilly imported gown and Miss Dean was lovely in a blue charmeuse, trimmed in shadow lace, with draped skirt and minaret. H. H. Van Sars, in a red velvet suit, selections for the pleasure of the guests. Refreshments of a salad course were

THE LIMIT

I can stand for the man with the cute little bow
On the back of his green colored hat.
For there are a lot of good fellows I know
Who sometimes have fallen for that.
The idea of what is a "hot" little fellow.
It's a fact that will never be missed,
But somehow I've always an itching to strike
The man with the watch on his wrist.
I grow peevisish at times at the ladylike
Who says "Mercy me" and "Oh dear!"
And the chap in the ballroom who uses
A fan
Is the chap I could swat on the ear.
The swell with the cane in the crook
of his arm
Isn't human, I often insist,
But some day somebody is going to harm
The man with the watch on his wrist.

To Keep Skin Healthy, Youthful, Wrinkleless

Now that the social season is here, be especially careful to keep your skin in fine condition. You know how conspicuous complexion defects appear under the bright light of the drawing or ball room. Also how very evident are some makeups when similarly illuminated. I have myself discarded cosmetics entirely, using a process which gives far better results, and which leaves no trace on the skin. At night I smear on a thin coat of ordinary meringue wax, washing off the next morning. This gradually absorbs the dehydrated particles of surface skin; just as gradually the more youthful skin beneath comes forth, providing a complexion as clear, smooth and delicately tinted as a young girl's. Get an ounce of meringue wax at your druggist's and try this remarkable treatment.

Remember, too, that wrinkles, even the finer lines, are not easily concealed in a brilliantly lighted room. You can quickly obliterate these hateful marks by bathing your face in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz. dissolved in witch hazel, 1-2 pt. And your face won't look sticky, as after using pastes.—Anti-Slavery in Woman's Realm.—Advertisement.

Afternoon frock of soufflé de sole.

The bodice hangs over a square empiement, edged with a small round collar. It shows a front totally pleated and a sleeve long and semi fitted, without arm hole and tightened by a narrow pecked.

A girle of "rosy" satin is draped at the waist. The tunic is made of two pleated flounces over the skirt, that is a plain and round model.

The edge of the collar and cuffs are hemstitched, and a small cord of white satin with tassels is bowed in front.

Church Affairs

The Social club of St. Clement's Episcopal church met on Wednesday night at Kendrick hall. Short sketches were given by a number of the members and dancing was enjoyed. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The young people were chaperoned by Rev. and Mrs. Henry Easter, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Williams, and Mrs. F. C. Coleman. Among those present were: Misses Meta Ormsbee, Helen Teichman, Gertrude and Mary Leighton, Constance Pateman, Kate Krause, Harry Homphreys, Clara Reese Coleman, Lavinia Brown, Mabel Harrison, Marie Robertson, Mary Lewis, Donna Plack, Messrs. Hugh Pickels, Herbert Hunter, Elmer Smith, Clarence Boren, Russell Mitchell, Henry Crocker, and Mrs. Lewis Crocker. Phil Warren, Roderick Turberville, E. D. Chase, Will Race, Jr.

Mrs. H. L. Graham entertained very delightfully for the Woman's Bible class of Trinity Methodist Sunday school on Wednesday afternoon, at her home at 215 Lawton avenue. The afternoon was spent in conversation and fancy work after which the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Morford and Master Lawrence Graham, served refreshments. Those present were: Mesdames J. T. Parker, C. Turk, E. L. Guerry, R. T. Wood, J. H. Morford, G. L. Jones, G. A. McIntosh, W. E. Lambeth, L. J. Trotter, H. E. Bryan, D. J. Roberts, J. C. Griffith, W. H. Lark, Mesdames Morford and McIntosh were guests of the class.

Lodges and Clubs

The Fraternal Brotherhood lodge, No. 283, met at the Knights of Columbus hall on Wednesday night. Previous to the installation, which was arranged for the evening, a telegram was delivered telling of the sudden death of the supreme president, James A. Foshay, of the Fraternal Brotherhood, in Los Angeles, Cal. As the program was arranged, it was carried out and eight new members were initiated. The election resulted as follows: President, Dr. Ida Bishop; vice president, Anna McCullough; secretary, M. C. Homphreys; treasurer, Rosalie Ashley; chaplain, Annie Laurie Brubaker; sergeant at arms, Charles Levine; master at arms, Pora Bakolsky; inner doorkeeper, L. Ives; outside doorkeeper, Kate Murtille; musician, Esther Figuiera; board of trustees, William C. Burdette and C. C. Van Natten; finance committee, Flora Graves and Julia A. Sharpe; physicians, Dr. C. F. Braden and Ida Bishop. The entertainment committee for the evening was W. C. Bulzer, C. C. Van Natten, Mrs. I. Whitehead, Mrs. G. Bauman and Mrs. F. Graves. Refreshments of salad, sandwiches, coffee and fruit were served.

The Fraternal Brotherhood lodge, No. 283, will hold a social gathering on Wednesday night, January 21, at the Knights of Columbus hall.

Among those who have taken up the new sport are Armory S. Carhart, whose family lives at Tuxedo the year round, and Miss Margaret Mason, of a well known Fifth avenue family.
